The National Transit Institute is pleased to announce the availability of their new Advanced Mobility Device Securement Skills Development Workshop. Transit agencies have the responsibility to provide safe transportation and respect the civil rights of all passengers, including those who use mobility devices. In order to fulfill this responsibility, operators secure mobility devices and place seat belts on passengers who use mobility devices as transit seating. This important task is becoming increasingly challenging as operators are confronted with a variety of powered mobility devices that often lack traditional securement points and may not have been addressed in basic securement training. This workshop gives transit professionals who are responsible for training, supervising, and coaching operators an opportunity to gain insight on addressing these securement challenges, explore related issues with peers, and enhance their knowledge and skills.

This two-day workshop presents and demonstrates problem-solving skills for securing powered mobility devices and allows participants to practice these skills with peers. After successfully completing this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Discuss federal requirements regarding securement and seat belt use
- List pre-trip preparation tasks
- Identify mobility device securement equipment
- Determine effective strap securement locations on powered mobility devices
- Explain the use and placement of seat belts and shoulder straps
- Recognize how proper body mechanics and exercise can reduce the risk of on-the-job injuries.
